

Avetta Named to the Spend Matters 2019 “50 Providers to Know” List

Industry-leading list includes companies leading the charge on new procurement technologies and services

April 11, 2019—OREM, Utah—Avetta, the leading provider of supply chain risk management, connecting organizations with qualified and vetted suppliers, contractors and vendors, today announced that the company has, for the second time, been included on the highly respected and referenced Spend Matters “50 Providers to Know” list.

Each year, the “50 Providers to Know” list recognizes the best-in-class companies in the procurement and supply chain market. These are firms that lead the charge on new procurement technologies and services, setting the industry standard. Vendors listed are independently selected by the analyst team over multiple rounds of debate, focusing on factors such as innovation, market presence, tech competency, and solution delivery. This year marks the sixth consecutive publication for the Spend Matters “50 To Know” list, as well as its counterpart, “50 to Watch.”

“We’re very pleased to be included in this prestigious, well-researched list of leading companies that procurement people need to know,” said John Herr, CEO of Avetta. “We believe Avetta is a game-changer for procurement professionals because we help companies achieve better safety outcomes by vetting contractors through a single highly configurable cloud-based platform to manage supply chain risk and provide better insights through our industry leading analytics engine.”

Avetta helps companies worldwide with supply chain risk management, enterprise and workplace safety through contractor management, and prequalification with a SaaS-based system that is the most configurable in the industry.
